Former Colby-Sawyer faculty member Tomie dePaola is one of the world’s most prolific and popular children’s authors and illustrators. He is perhaps best known for creating the eponymous pasta maker in Strega Nona, a picture book that garnered a Caldecott Honor Award in 1976, but he has published nearly 250 books and sold some 15 million copies. “NOW” includes many of his familiar children’s book illustrations.
